

“ HOMMAGE ” ♂

A patinated aluminium table, Hommage ♂ splits open to unveil a rugged golden tear.

All started from an industrial, technical yet minimal, constructive element: an IPN beam.
Basic structural element, usually hidden, it structures and canalizes the intensity that runs through it.

Man.

I wanted to reveal a man's most intimate cleavage, the fracture around which he builds his life... and looking inside this fracture, one catches a glimpse of the roof of the world.

Stretched in between his aspirations and existence, his inner violence and search for quietness, he finds a balance.

Like a scar, the interstice never heals.

The wound becomes precious, absorbs light, warms it up to concentrate and irradiate it.
From this fracture, a convivial table rises.
